

Experience

Text

A Annotations 301–302

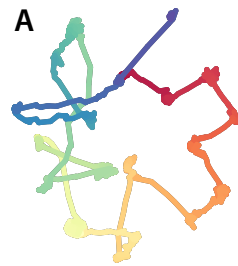

Narrative details (explicit) Earn walks after Dave. Earn asks how much money Dave and KP want to play Paper Boy's song. Dave tells him KP would want five hundred dollars to play the song.

Narrative details (implicit) Dave is asking for a bribe to do Earn a favor.

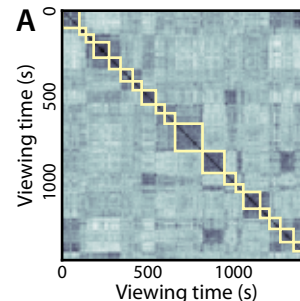

Speech "How much? Half a stack."

...

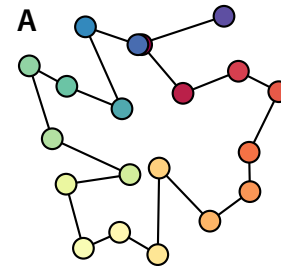

Trajectories

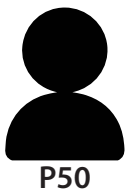

Event-segmentation

Events

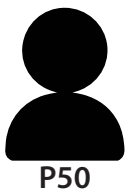

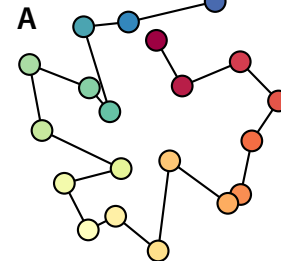

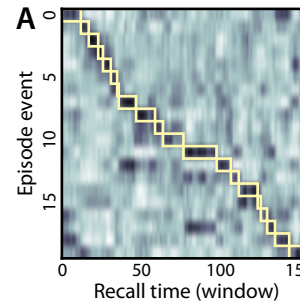

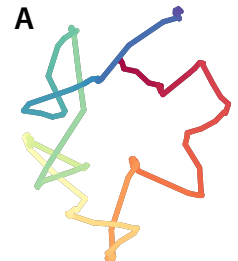

Memory

A Immediate recall transcript

... And then Earnest essentially asks him if he would play the song on the radio, or if he could get his boss to, you know, play the song on the radio. Dave at that point says that he could, but since it's all about kind of connections and knowing people, it takes five hundred dollars with the mixtape to bring it to his boss, KP, they call him...

A Delayed recall transcript

... So then Earnest sort of just moves on to the conversation and asks him to, I think, play—or essentially how he could get the tape onto the radio, presumably Paper Boy's mixtape or his new song. And Dave ends up telling him, I think, he needs five hundred dollars or a certain amount of money with the tape, and then he would get it up to his boss...

